Scripture is powerful and just looking at each instance as we see each of these people living life is so completely and radically transformed that there is at some point --I'm hoping-- that you have to ask yourself why don't I look like that? Why doesn't the church I attend look like that? --- but then concluding that is Scripture true or am I just simply following the traditions of man? Am I simply believing what I've been told rather than reading the Scriptures and then embracing who God has always called us to be.

Are you ready to take a personal stand and say, "I've read the Bible and the Bible says this therefore it must be true"--
